Product Description

The convective warming blankets consist of two layers of non-woven polypropylene fabric coated with a layer of polyethylene. The layers are bonded together to form a distribution network of air delivery channels. The warm air is distributed around the blanket through the delivery of channels and exits the blanket through a specially designed series of perforations in the patient side of the blanket. The distribution of air is designed to minimize temperature differences throughout the blanket.

Indications

The Snuggle Warm® patient warming blanket is intended to prevent and treat hypothermia when temperature therapy is clinically indicated. The warming blanket can also be used to provide thermal comfort when conditions exist that may cause the patient to become too warm or too cold. The Snuggle Warm® blanket can be used with adult or paediatric patients and is intended for use by appropriately trained healthcare professionals in clinical environments.

Cautions and Contraindications

Refer to IFU
